Alumni Secretary's Column

In this second issue of the Bulletin will be found a description of Kenyon's war program. It is one which has called for an enormous amount of work on the part of everyone connected with the college. The members of the Administration and the Faculty are co-operating splendidly and are putting in long hours and are dedicating themselves to the job in hand.

Your Secretary finds himself far removed much of the time from alumni matters, yet not far removed, because what concerns the College concerns the alumni, and I know that the paramount desire of Kenyon men everywhere is that the College shall perform the maximum service of which it is capable during these times. President Chalmers is away from the college much of the time in connection with his duties at Washington and elsewhere. Dean Hoag has been lent to the Army for three months' service in connection with the meteorological program, and thus, those of us whose job is here on the campus are shouldering additional responsibilities.

I have felt that the alumni want their Secretary to make himself as useful to the College as possible in any capacity for which he is fitted, and hence, my time these days is devoted largely to administrative problems and the work of the Dean. I spend the mornings each day in the Secretary's Office, and the afternoons in the Dean's office, and I must say that the one is as enjoyable as the other. I thoroughly like the

U. S. ARMY ESTABLISHES PREMETEOROLOGICAL TRAINING COURSE AT KENYON FOR AIR FORCES

The history of the establishment of the Pre-Meteorological Training Course at Kenyon presents a story of initiative, resourcefulness, speed and co-operation between civilians, as represented by college administration and faculty, and those in control of the armed forces and man-power of the nation, which is highly significant of the effectiveness of Democracy at war.

It was on October 6th, only a little over ninety days ago, that President Chalmers had his first interview with United States Army Air Force Officers in Washington, for the purpose of proposing to them the establishment of a course in pre-meteorology in the undergraduate colleges to supply the graduate meteorological schools with a sufficient flow of candidates for commissions in the Air Forces as weather men. True, this followed months of thought and study here at Kenyon, to learn what we could best do as our part in the war program, to train young men in some special field in which there was then a definite need. We had learned that many thousands of meteorologists, weather men, were needed as fast as they could be prepared for service with our Air Forces around the globe, and that the number of college men taking work which would qualify them for graduate work in meteorology was entirely inadequate. The Administration of the College and the heads of the mathematics and physics departments, immediately upon learning of this shortage, and having behind them the facilities in instructor-personnel and plant at Kenyon, decided that this was something which we were eminently qualified to do and do well. A tentative curriculum was prepared which, with a general outline of our plan, was presented to the Army Air Forces in Washington by President Chalmers on his first visit for this purpose, and was discussed at greater length a day or two later.

Because of the obvious need, and the fact that the Kenyon plan offered the best solution, it was almost immediately accepted in principle, and work was started to put it into effect at Washington and at Chicago, where the administration of the graduate meteorological work is centered under Dr. Rossby, head of the Institute of Meteorology.

From October 6th on, not a minute has been lost here at Kenyon, at Washington, or Chicago, in making plans setting up the curriculum, recruiting students and organizing the twelve colleges, including Kenyon, which now constitute the College Pre-Meteorology Group. We doubt if any plan as comprehensive as this, involving so many persons, and as much Government expense, has ever passed through the necessary channels in less time.

The Pre-Meteorological course which was scheduled to start at Kenyon on February 1st, but may not start now until February 15th, will be duplicated at eleven other colleges and universities: Amherst, Bowdoin, Hamilton, Haverford, Denison, Vanderbilt, The University of Virginia, The University of Chicago, Carleton, Pomona and Reed. Each of these institutions is assigned approximately 200 young men who have been recruited from secondary schools, many of them now high school seniors, who have the necessary qualifications, particularly in mathematics and physics.

A Letter from the President of the Alumni Council

ALAN G.
GOLDSMITH

In this issue of the Bulletin you will be told of the establishment of a pre-meteorological training school of the U.S. Army Air Force at Kenyon. This will be gratifying to each and every one of us. We realize that our Alma Mater is now participating in the war effort directly rather than indirectly.

Needless to say, up to the present time Kenyon has done her full share in the defense of our country, adjusting her curriculum so as to prepare young men for responsible work in the armed forces, with an enrollment as high proportionately as any college or university in the land of enlisted reserves in the Army, Navy, Air Forces and Marine Corps. The establishment of the School of Meteorology under the direct authority of the Air Force is the climax of months of preparation on the part of the President, assisted in every possible way by the faculty and staff.

The credit for this accomplishment belongs to President Chalmers. Throughout all this period it has been his firm, unswerving belief that Kenyon must give its service to the country in this great crisis, and that unless a college can give outstanding service it has no right to survive. He has felt that it is the privilege and the duty of Kenyon to give and not to take. Unswervingly, and unhesitatingly he has adhered to this standard. That this loyalty and integrity of purpose are recognized in the War Department is evident from the fact that President Chalmers for some time has been spending part of each month in Washington, acting as an advisor on military education, and that he has been given the responsibility of installing pre-meteorological schools at a number of institutions in addition to Kenyon.

Wartime conditions make it difficult for all the alumni to keep in touch with the College and to learn at first hand the progress that has been made. We are kept in touch because of the able administration of our Secretary, Robert B. Brown, who sacrificed a fine position in industry to serve the College, because he

Cincinnati Alumni Meet

On Friday, November 20, the Kenyon alumni of Cincinnati met at the University Club for their annual dinner and meeting. About twenty-five or thirty turned out and the affair was as enjoyable as usual, although the group was considerably smaller. Very few of the younger men were present, but all the old stand-bys were there; the Standberys, Tom Youtsey, Edgar Mosher, Gale Evans, Joseph Scherr, etc.

At the meeting after dinner, Gale Evans was re-elected president; Ralph Gordon, vice-president; Joseph Scherr, secretary-treasurer; and as representatives to the Alumni Council, Dave Bowman and Burch Rowe.

Alumni Secretary Brown talked about the state of the College generally and the prospective school of meteorology, and gave a brief account of the result of the Emergency Fund Drive.

Louis Brereton Elected To Alumni Executive Committee

At the October meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association, the Reverend Mr. Louis M. Brereton, '34, was elected to membership of the Executive Committee. The vacancy which Mr. Brereton was elected to fill was created by the resignation of Mr. Donald C. Mell, '21, who will retain his office of vice-president of the Alumni Council, and who will continue to sit with the Executive Committee as a member, ex officio.

Bexley alumni have shown active interest in college and alumni affairs, and it has long been the desire of the officers of the Alumni Council and of the Executive Committee, to have as a member of the Executive Committee, an alumnus who is a graduate of Bexley Hall as well as of the undergraduate college.

Mr. Brereton, who graduated from Bexley in 1938, is now rector of St. Peter's Church, Lakewood, Ohio.

loved Kenyon and was willing to give himself for her good. While Dean Hoag has been given leave in connection with this war work development, Bob Brown is Acting Dean of the College in addition to his other duties. To him goes the credit of holding the body of alumni together, of maintaining their interest and allegiance to Kenyon, and of guiding their activities, so as better to further the College in her effort to serve the Country.

It is my privilege and a great pleasure to be able to present these facts to the entire alumni body so that they will know of these accomplishments and give credit where credit is due.

LETTER FROM CANON WATSON

Canon Orville E. Watson

It may have been observed that Kenyon College has a motto. This motto is inscribed across the pages of an open book in the chief of Kenyon's shield, but, as if the reading of it were a matter of little concern, it is written not only in Gothic letters, but also in a language commonly considered dead, in Latin.

Now the time has come when the meaning of this motto may well be brought out from its decorative obscurity and impressed upon the thought of every man. As it stands in the shield it reads Magnanimitè crucem sustine. It is not easy to put it into English words. "Bear thou the cross magnanimously" will hardly do, for the adverb has acquired in our language a softened significance. "Bear thou the cross with greatness of soul" expresses it but lacks the arrow-like directness of the original appeal. However, that is what it means.

It is the phrase "greatness of soul" that arrests attention. We know the figurative meaning of a "cross," and we know too well the very heavy cross the world is now compelled to bear. We hear also, continually, the multitudinous outcries with which the world is bearing it. But amid curses and lamentations and voices of partisanship and pessimism, we are also inspired by utterances revealing "greatness of soul." One mark of it is fortitude, the strength to endure with courage and with loyalty. Another is hope, the ardent expectation likened of old to a rainbow over storm. And another is vision, the power to see beyond one's personal pain to land and sky of wider issues.

The presence of inevitable tragedy in human life has always been man's problem, never

The President's Column

To the Alumni:

I write this letter to you from southern Arizona, where Mrs. Chalmers and I have come for a breather of desert sunshine. From this distance, and seen from this climate, two elements of the life of Kenyon appear to overshadow all others: its character as an institution for military training and its contribution to the restoration of liberal education when the war is over.

GORDON K.
CHALMERS

In February there will be nearly as many soldiers studying in the College as civilians; most of the civilians will be studying at least some subjects because of their direct usefulness in waging war. Liberal studies are undertaken largely for their own sake; their usefulness applies almost entirely to the student's own mind and soul. Little such study remains in American colleges, and rightly so, since victory in the field is the prerequisite of any free life for Americans.

The soldier students in Kenyon will all study a prescribed course exclusively for military use; the civilians will continue to choose some courses purely for their own sake. This fact in itself does not describe liberal education, but it helps distinguish it from applied education.

In the immediate future we shall evidently have a very considerable number of civilian students. If humanly possible, we are determined to continue the liberal arts college throughout the war, side by side with the military college. To do this may prove expensive and difficult, but when the war is over we can say that liberal education was not suspended in Kenyon. Our opportunity to revive genuine learning for the sake of the mind and soul of the student will be greater than if education, as Kenyon has known it for over a century, had ceased.

Yours sincerely,

G. K. C.

contact with the undergraduates which the temporary office of Dean affords. On the other hand, I will be glad when it is all over, to get back to the Alumni program where most of my time in normal years should be spent. In the meantime, Charles McKinley, Kenyon '40, an instructor in the English Department and my assistant, is giving me invaluable aid in carrying on the alumni work, and is largely responsible for the editing of this Bulletin.

FOURTEEN AWARDED DEGREES AT FIRST WAR-TIME COMMENCEMENT

Kenyon's first special war-time commencement was held on Thursday morning, December 10, in the Speech Building, at which time degrees were awarded to fourteen men. The traditional ceremony of conferring degrees was followed, although other parts of the usual exercises were necessarily omitted.

The Right Reverend Henry Wise Hobson, D.D., Bishop of Southern Ohio, delivered the commencement address. Bishop Hobson was a major in World War I and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for leading his troops while wounded.

"Only a strategy of attack can win this war," Bishop Robson told the graduating class. Winning of a military victory only will be a hollow victory, and the United States must carry the strategy of attack into the peace that follows to guarantee a meaning to the fighting and dying now going on.

One of the nation's earliest and most ardent advocates for a positive and aggressive foreign policy, Bishop Hobson declared this war was brought upon the world by a refusal of the Allied nations to face the fact that free men must fight to maintain those principles of freedom, justice, and right which were expounded by Jefferson and his fellow patriots in drafting the Declaration of Independence, and by Lincoln in his Gettysburg address.

"The blindest among us are those who say the war was caused by Hitler, by a faulty economic system, or by the totalitarian powers," he said.

Bishop Hobson charged that when the Japanese invaded Manchuria in 1931, and when the Italians invaded Ethiopia, "We drew back in our shells, unwilling to give up the soft and easy life to fight for the principle that the strong must not be allowed to swallow the weak."

"Hitler was just a tiny speck in our minds that day, but he had the capacity to which we were blind."

Bishop Hobson expressed a belief that America needs today someone to put into words the ideals for which we are fighting and to carry them into the post-war period.

"We must have ideals to fight for as well as something to fight against," he quoted from a letter by Russell Whittlesley, an American soldier who died at Guadalcanal.

Degrees were conferred upon the following:

Sam Saunders Fitzsimmons, magna cum laude, Honors in Political Science (in absentia)*; Kenyon Alfred Knopf, magna cum laude, High Honors in Economics; William Evan Lewis, Jr., cum laude, Honors in History.

Robert Myron Ahrens; Rupert Fleming Anderson, Jr., cum laude; Robert Leo Costello; Philip Tedford Doughten, cum laude; Richard

President and Dean Appointed Army Air Forces Consultants

On Nov. 20, President Chalmers announced new positions to which both he and Dean Hoag have been appointed in connection with the war. President Chalmers has been appointed a Consultant to the Headquarters of the United States Army Air Forces, and he will devote a few days each month to his duties in Washington and elsewhere, continuing his duties as President of Kenyon College.

Dean Hoag has also been appointed a Consultant to the Air Forces with special responsibilities for the new meteorological training program. To carry out his duties Dean Hoag has been given leave of absence for three months.

The appointment of Mr. Robert B. Brown, the secretary of the College, as Acting Dean, was also announced by Dr. Chalmers.

MRS. HENRY TITUS WEST DIES

Caroline Ashley West, wife of Henry Titus West, Professor Emeritus of German at Kenyon College, died at her home in Gambier, on December 29, 1942. For several months she had been in failing health and great suffering, but during the last days of her illness her discomfort decreased, and she passed away almost without pain. She is survived by her husband, Dr. Henry Titus West, a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy West Hynes, and three grandchildren.

Mrs. West had lived in Gambier and had been a conspicuous figure in the social life of the College and the village for almost fifty years. The news of her death will thus bring sorrow to the hearts of the many generations of students and other friends of Kenyon who during the past half century attended the College or visited Gambier, for to almost all of these Mrs. West was well known and had endeared herself, and for many of them her death will now have deprived returned to Gambier of one of its sweetest pleasures.

Mrs. West was one of those rare and happy spirits who naturally radiate friendliness to others and who just as naturally draw affection to themselves. She really and genuinely liked people and wished people to like her. She delighted in having many friends, and she was never so happy as when she was surrounded by her friends in her own home. Her

OBITUARIES

Since the publication of the first issue of the Alumni Bulletin, notice has been received by this office of the deaths of the following men. We extend our sympathy to their families and friends.

James Wisden Potts, Baltimore, Maryland, died October 6, 1942. Mr. Potts attended the Kenyon Military Academy during the years 1903-05.

William Burton McLain, '30, at his home in Massillon, Ohio, November 21, 1942. He was a member of Alpha Delta Phi.

James H. Cable, '11, in Los Angeles, California, September 11, 1942. Mr. Cable served as a Lieutenant in the first World War. In college he was active in athletics, and in musical and dramatic activities. He is survived by his wife and one son, Dirk.

Henry Wright Buttolph, in Indianapolis, December, 1942. Mr. Buttolph was born in Cleveland in 1870, graduated from K.M.A. in 1888 and from Kenyon in 1892. He received his M. A. degree in 1895. He taught for a year at St. Alban's College and then went into the insurance business. At the time of his death he was actuary for the American Central Life Insurance Company. He had been treasurer of the Diocese of Indiana for over twenty-one years. He was a brother of Guy H. Buttolph, '92.

Dr. John Clarence Flood, 79, headmaster of the Kenyon Military Academy from 1890 to 1898, died at his home in Geneva, New York, Sunday. He was at one time Latin master of the Deveau School and was Latin master at St. Mark's School, Southborough, Mass. until his retirement in 1929.

LETTER

The following is a letter written to Dr. Chalmers by Dr. William W. Greulich, '26, Director of the Brush Foundation at the School of Medicine, Western Reserve University.

Dear President Chalmers:

I have just read in the November number of the Kenyon Alumni Bulletin that Kenyon is cooperating with the National Student Relocation Council and that it has accepted Mr. Ichiro Hasegawa as a student.

I want to congratulate you and the other members of the faculty who were responsible for this action. It takes real courage to do the fair thing when it runs counter to popular prejudice. Your action is but another evidence of the type of enlightened leadership which makes me proud I am a Kenyon alumnus.

Yours very sincerely,

home and hospitality were open to everyone, old and young, friend and stranger, who knocked at her door.

But although Mrs. West made everyone who came to her house or within her circle feel the friendly charm of her personality, she took special interest in all the young people in Gambier who happened to be away from home ties, such as the students of Kenyon and Harcourt. To these younger members of the community she showed the richest side of her generous nature, to them she opened most widely and often the doors of her hospitality, and to them in their joys, in their sorrows, and in their troubles, she was always a most sympathetic confidante and friend.

Mrs. West will be missed by everyone who knew her, but her passing away from the Gambier scene will be felt particularly by all those who at any time during the past forty-eight years were young men or young women away from home in Gambier. They, in a special sense, loved her living, and they mourn her dead. And in their affectionate remembrance of her kindness, her friendliness, and her generosity will be found an enduring tribute to her beautiful character.

TRUSTEE ELECTED TO BENCH

Judge John W. Ford of Youngstown, Kenyon trustee and honorary alumnus of the class of '39, was elected to the bench in the Common Pleas Court in the November elections. Mr. Ford had a plurality more than equal to his opponents' votes.

ATHLETICS

The opening of the new term finds the basketball and the swimming squads hard at work making up for lost time during the Christmas vacation. Chuck Imel, the "whip-cracker" for both these squads, has the men working twice each day to get them ready for their impending contests.

The basketball team was hard hit by the loss of Capt. Smith who will not be in college during the winter term. To replace him will be a man-sized job. The swimming team was more fortunate, hence it promises to be the strongest team ever to represent the College in this sport.

The transportation of these teams is a problem that may become unsurmountable as the season progresses. However, we are hoping to carry out the schedule if at all possible.

Basketball Schedule

Intramural volleyball is pretty well under way. The white league is dominated by South Hanna and North Leonard while in the purple league, Middle Leonard is already in. A few more games should decide the College Championship. Volleyball will be followed by basketball, squash, boxing and badminton. The all-important responsibility of this department, physical fitness of the entire student body, is meeting

"CHUCK" IMEL

Captain, 1943 Swimmers

Bill Blacka, '43, Kenyon's ace freestyler and backstroker, elected captain of this year's swimming team.

Dramatic Club Makes Winter Plans

Although the Dramatic Club is not willing to make any definite statements concerning its activities this winter, it is willing to present some of the ideas with which it has been working. The plans, tentative as they are, include the production of three or four plays by the students of Kenyon College and the small possibility that two of these plays will be presented at Denison; while Denison, who plans on producing at least two plays, will bring the same number to a Kenyon audience. This means that at least five or six plays will be played on the Kenyon stage in as many weeks. The first play of this tentative program will be presented early in February. This increased activity may be made possible on two grounds. First, many of the activities on the campus have folded up, thus giving men capable and willing to take the many parts the time to do so. Secondly, many of the students, because of traveling difficulties, will be forced to remain on the campus, and the plays will afford entertainment for them as well as the two hundred soldiers expected February 1. The soldiers will not be allowed to participate in the plays, however.

favor with the men subjected to it. The program includes calisthenics, hard labor, marching and running, boxing and judo, and personal group combat. The Friday afternoon battle-royals, for possession of the hump in the middle of the gravel pit make the freshman-sophomore fights and cane rushes seem tame in comparison.

Swimming Medal Presented As Carl A. Weiant, Jr. Memorial

A recent gift from Mr. Carl A. Weiant, '05, will provide for an annual award of a medal to be presented to the most promising freshman swimmer at the end of the swimming season. The medal, in memory of Carl A. Weiant, Jr., '37, captain of Kenyon's first swimming team, and in honor of Charles C. Imel, Kenyon's first swimming coach, is to be known as The Weiant Swimming Medal and will be presented each year to the outstanding freshman swimmer by Coach Imel or his successor.

Dr. Peirce Announces Radio Debates

Dr. William F. Peirce, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the American Economic foundation, has announced that a total of 247 colleges and universities, with an aggregate enrollment of 616,386 students and representing 45 states and the District of Columbia, has registered for the Second Series of National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debates.

Kenyon is listed among the colleges to compete. Debates will be held February 15th to April 18th, under the auspices of the Foundation with the cooperation of the Blue Network. The Foundation conducts the "Wake Up, America!" Radio Forum heard every Sunday afternoon. The subject of the forthcoming debates is "Should American Youth Support the Re-establishment After the War of Competitive Enterprise As Our Dominant Economic System?"

1943 Basketball Captain

Russ Lynch, '44, last year's high point man, elected captain of the basketball team to replace Tom Smith who will not be in college during the winter term.

These boys, under the direction of Dr. E. H. Johnson, head of the Department of Physics, are training themselves for special work in the armed services, and as enlistees of the Army or Navy Reserves, will be called for Officers' training.

Premeteorology Course

The Kenyon Admissions Department has done almost too good a job, with the result that we have now sent to Chicago over eleven hundred applications, only 220 of which can possibly be accepted for Kenyon. These young men will be inducted into the Army before being assigned to Kenyon. When they arrive here they will be in uniform and will receive an adequate subsistence allowance and the regular private's pay of $50.00 per month. Their tuition is paid by the Army Air Forces.

To house and feed this unit in addition to the regular liberal arts college, which now numbers approximately 240, is of course, a problem. Old Kenyon has been turned over completely to the Army. Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon are moving into the Alumni House, which has been dismantled and will be refurnished with College furniture, double-decker beds, and so forth. These two fraternities will share Alumni House as their quarters for the duration. The three fraternities in Leonard Hall, Psi Upsilon, Delta Tau Delta and Beta Theta Pi, have squeezed themselves into the floors above the first floor and the basement. The men from Middle Kenyon are moving into the ground floor and the basement floor of Leonard, and some into Hanna Hall. Douglass House has been remodeled and converted into an infirmary and dispensary where we shall have full-time service and twelve beds for light cases. Serious cases will be sent to Mercy Hospital in Mount Vernon, as heretofore. The small faculty house just south of the old College Commons will be used as a Guest House where we can accommodate a few over-night guests in the three bedrooms. The lower floor is furnished as a lounge and reception room which can be used for guests of the house and those who are here only for the day. Bexley Hall has turned over nine rooms to the College for occupancy by college undergraduates, and a number of boys are rooming in village homes.

Meals will be served in shifts, the meteorological unit approximately one hour before the regular college, through the day. Rosse Hall will be used jointly by the Meteorological unit and the College, and the offices in Rosse Hall will be occupied by the Army officers in charge. The Kenyon faculty is being expanded, particularly in the mathematics and physics departments, to carry the extra load, and there will be ten to fifteen assistant instructors, instructors, and associate professors joining the faculty about February 1st. A comprehensive program of entertainment and recreation is being planned by a joint committee of faculty members, faculty wives and students, by which means we hope to keep up morale and offset the lack of transportation to and from Gambier.

Thus, Kenyon becomes a "War College." All eligible students now in the liberal arts college are members of one or the other of the enlisted reserves, Army, Navy, Marine or Air Forces, and according to present plans, these men will be in uniform within the next few months.

The alumni of the college, both in and out of the service, may take great pride in the part which their college is playing during these critical years. President Chalmers has said repeatedly, in public and in private, that Kenyon and its sister colleges should keep going during the war, only if they could make themselves useful in the war effort. Kenyon, through the energy and resourcefulness of its

Winter Term Opens With 247 Enrolled

The College opened officially for the winter term on January 5th, with an enrollment of 247 students. Acting Dean Brown spoke at the special assembly of students and faculty in Rosse Hall, explaining the current arrangements for the Pre-Meteorology Course to go into effect in February. Dr. Palmer also explained the recent developments of the Navy and Army Reserves.

Of the total enrollment, seven students are new to the College: Gordon Felton, Indianola, Iowa; Richard M. Schaeffer, a junior and transfer from the University of Kansas. His home is in Kansas City, Mo. Kevin M. O'Donnell, Cleveland, Ohio; Thomas O. Youtsey, Covington, Kentucky, pledged Delta Tau Delta; Don Matthews, Glendale, Ohio and Charles W. Parton, Bronxville, New York, both pledged to Beta Theta Pi; and Harry G. Ziegler, Jackson, Michigan, pledged to Psi Upsilon.

Of the 247 enrolled, three men have already left to take their places in the armed services. Don Hamister, president of Delta Phi, and a member of V-5, Naval Air Corps Reserve, has left the Hill and will report on February 3rd for training. Bob Sherratt, D.K.E. and Ben Wandel, Psi U. both left within the last week for the draft. Jim Searcy, also of Psi U. has just received his orders from the army and is leaving the Hill.

Administration and faculty, has found its place, and is determined to do a job for the country which will be in keeping with its time-honored tradition.

The pre-meteorology training will be constituted primarily of mathematics and physics which will be considered as one field of study. The mathematics training will carry through the subject matter of three years of college mathematics, although with some limitations. In physics, the work will be the equivalent of two years of college physics with less emphasis on laboratory courses.

The course in geography will be relatively brief in extent and will involve the study of physical geography and map construction and reading.

The curriculum will also include courses in the departments of English, history, and speech, designed to train enlistees to speak and write intelligently. The English and speech courses will be correlated with history and economics.

The Pre-Meteorological Training Program will involve forty-nine academic hours of work, two-thirds of which will be in mathematics and physics, the remainder in geography, English, history, and speech. The curriculum was dictated by the University Meteorological Committee, a committee of scientists who are specialists in the field of meteorology.

LARWILL LECTURERS DISCUSS PLANNING POST-WAR AMERICA

President Chalmers has announced a symposium to be held at the College on Friday, January 29th, on Planning for Post-War America. The speakers will be Dean Louis Wirth, for the Government; Mr. Paul G. Hoffman, for Industrial Management; and Mr. Ted F. Silvey, for Labor. The symposium will constitute the Larwill Lectures for 1943.

Louis Wirth is Midwestern Regional Director of the National Resources Planning Board, a research organization appointed by President Roosevelt to survey our national resources and to plan for their most effective use during the present emergency and during the period of post-war reconstruction. He is Professor of Sociology and Associate Dean of Social Science at the University of Chicago, and has written numerous books on political and sociological subjects.

Paul G. Hoffman is chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, recently formed by a group of leading industrialists and financiers with the purpose of planning for maximum production and employment after the war. He is president of the Studebaker Corporation and a trustee of Kenyon College.

Ted F. Silvey is secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Industrial Union Council, which represents all C. I. O. unions in Ohio. He has been one of the most active leaders of the C. I. O. in arguing the necessity for participation by organized labor in post-war planning.

The morning session of the symposium in Rosse Hall will consist of statements by each of the speakers of the views of his organization on the economic problems that will arise in the transition from a war-time to a peace-time economy. The afternoon session in the Speech Building auditorium, will be devoted to a panel discussion which will include questions from the floor.

Students Leave

During the fall term, seven Kenyon men left the Hill to enter the armed forces. These include Leonard Snellman, H. Noyes Spelman, William James, Andrew Morgan, Dixon Hunt, James Garber, and Harrison McCormick.

Snellman, who completed his work for graduation at the middle of the term, was enlisted in the Army Air Corps Reserve and went to the University of Chicago for study in the meteorology school there. James and Spelman entered the Marines. Hunt and Garber, who were enlisted in the Army Reserves, asked for active duty. Morgan was drafted late in November, and McCormick left Kenyon expecting to enlist in the Marine Corps.

Dramatic Club

There will be one comedy presented. For this production such plays as Three Men on a Horse, Room Service, Out of the Frying Pan and several others are being considered. Mr. Stanley Anderson, the director of the Dramatic Club last spring, has sent down a manuscript play, Set It In Troy, written by a student at the University of Wisconsin. "A darn good play. There's a good chance that the Dramatic Club will do it," was Mr. Sawyer's comment. In the serious tone, there is In Time to Come, by Howard Koch. It describes the conditions which existed during the last post-war period, presumably to the advantage of those who will have to face the next one. It centers about Woodrow Wilson. There will be another production of The Eve of St. Mark's using practically the same cast. Only a few of the larger parts will be changed.

solved. But perhaps we may find a certain satisfaction in a parable. Just as a man named Simon, so we read, carried the cross of Christ to Calvary, conscious only of his own humiliation and his own heavy load, utterly ignorant of the momentous event in which he played a reluctant part, so humanity may be bearing a cross in a cosmic drama far beyond our comprehending. Whether in a battle or a smithy or a birth—perhaps in the molding of a star—labor and pain seem the price to be paid in the processes of creation.

Faculty and Staff Entertained

Members of the faculty and their wives and members of the staff of the College enjoyed an evening of games and dancing and refreshments Saturday January 23rd, in the Peirce Hall Commons.

The party was a gift of Mr. Charles C. Wright of Cleveland, a trustee of the College, and Mrs. Wright, who donated a check, specifying that it be used for the entertainment of the faculty and staff, in recognition of their hard work and service to the College during the past year.

More than 85 attended the function and spent the evening dancing, playing bridge, and participating in competitive games.

Christmas Party

The annual Christmas dinner, under the auspices of the Student Assembly, was held in the Commons Sunday evening, December 6. Members of the faculty and their wives were guests of the Assembly. Dr. and Mrs. Chalmers and Mr. and Mrs. Brown entertained officers of the various student government organizations at the high table.

The Great Hall was decorated with Christmas greens and lighted candles and a fire burned in the fireplace. The group joined in singing carols and Kenyon songs after the meal and a reception for the faculties and their wives and members of the senior class was held in the Peirce Hall lounge.

Kenyon students, under the direction of Dr. C. T. Bumer, receive instruction in mathematics, preparing them for Officers' training in the armed services.
